

School
Based
Management
Committees

SBMCs are made up of voluntary representatives from across the local community who are committed to making sure schools make the best use of available resources so that children can learn well in a happy and safe environment. They are not the same as PTAs.

SBMCs will help communities understand what is happening in schools and allow communities to say how primary schools should be managed.

SBMCs will participate in school development planning and support good management of primary schools. They will help Head Teachers and Teachers to provide the best possible education for our children.

SBMCs will challenge bad management and make Head Teachers and Teachers accountable for poor performance.

SBMCs will work in partnership with State and School authorities to improve the quality of education for all and help our children secure a successful future in a modern society.

SBMCs are official bodies being established nationwide under government policy to strengthen the link between local communities and their schools and to check schools are working.
