▶ Asking questions

This is the fifth in a series of six
literacy lesson
plan publications,
designed to be used throughout the three academic school terms.

Introduction

Teacher training remains a key element in improving schools and increasing learning outcomes. Where teachers are not supported, there may be high rates of teacher absenteeism, pupil drop out and apathy from parents. Jigawa State Ministry of Education, Science and Technology and the State Universal Basic Education Board (SUBEB) are working with the UK Department for International Development (DFID) and Education Sector Support Programme in Nigeria (ESSPIN) to increase the capacity of teachers and school heads to be effective and accountable.

Following the 2010 Teacher Development Needs Assessment, we collectively embarked on a series of reforms to strengthen teacher quality and school leadership. This work has focused on how to make teaching child-centred, and the organisational structures needed to improve service delivery.

These lesson plans are not designed to replace professional teachers' preparations. They address gaps in linking theory and practice and focus on improving pupils' literacy and numeracy through a step-by-step guide for teachers, while ensuring children that become active learners. Alongside the plans, new structures and processes ensure that teachers are continuously supported by both the State School Improvement Team (SSIT) and the LGEA-based school support officers (SSOs).

I am confident that with correct implementation and targeted support, these lesson plans will raise standards and improve the quality of teaching and learning outcomes.

The Ministry of Education, Science and Technology appreciates all those who have worked hard to produce these lesson plans and train our teachers to use them. Specifically, I offer thanks to DFID for its ongoing support through the ESSPIN programme.

Introduction

▶ Asking questions

Effective questioning in the classroom

Questioning is a very useful way to find out what pupils already know and whether they understand what they are learning. It is also a strategy to measure how successful your teaching is.

When you use questioning as part of your teaching, you are involving pupils in their learning, and giving them immediate feedback. This is a good way to develop motivation.

Pupil participation

Ask pupils to discuss questions in pairs or small groups. This is a good way to get the whole class talking. It gives pupils the chance to explain their thinking.

Explain to your class that the question is for them to discuss in a pair or a group. Tell them they have 2—3 minutes to discuss it. Ask the question and walk around the class listening to the pupils talk. You can then ask further questions to extend their thinking or help their understanding.

Thinking time

It is really important that when you ask pupils questions you count to 15 in your head before you choose someone to answer. This gives all pupils the chance to think of something to say, not just the ‘quick thinkers’.

When asking questions remember to choose pupils from different areas of the classroom – choose pupils who do not have their hand up and choose pupils whose understanding you want to check.

Different questions

The main types of questions are ‘closed’ questions and ‘open’ questions. When you ask closed questions there will only be one answer, eg: ‘What is 3 x 4?’, ‘What colour is the dog in the story?’. It is easier to ask closed questions. An open question is one that has many answers, eg: ‘What do you think Musa likes doing on a Saturday?’ Asking open questions makes children think of different ideas.

'i-e' story

It is five to nine. The sun starts to shine. Ali puts his white shirt on. He goes outside. He sits under a pine tree. Lado rides his bike. They like being outside. 'Let us play hide and seek,' says Ali. He finds a wide pipe to hide in. Lado sees his white shirt and shouts, 'I can see you.'

'a-e' story

Lami and Adama made a game. Lami was a snake. Adama was eating a cake. Lami was chasing Adama and trying to make her fall down. She was trying to escape. She had to get to the lake and swim to a secret cave.

'o-e' story

The dog woke up. He was at home alone. He looked for a bone but all he found was a stone.

Who is it?

Sit one pupil on a chair with his or her back to the rest of the class.

Point to another pupil to come and tap him or her on the head and say, 'Who is it?'

Ask the pupil on the chair to guess who is asking the question.

As soon as the pupil on the chair guesses correctly, change the pupils and let other pupils have a turn.

This game can be played in groups.

Adjective game

Gather the pupils in a circle.

Ask a pupil to say a noun, eg: 'man', 'goat', 'house'.

Ask the next pupil to think of an adjective to describe the noun, eg: 'an angry man'.

Tell the next pupil to continue with another adjective, eg: 'an angry, fat man'.

Continue until no one can think of any more adjectives.

Introduction

Danladi's goats

Danladi had always been unlucky with his goats. He had lost six goats, all in the same way. His house was the last in the village and his compound opened on to the high mountains.

One day, Danladi saw a beautiful, little, white she-goat and had to buy it. He thought she would be very happy with lots of room to wander and lots of lush, green grass to eat.

But the goat cried and wouldn't give any milk. Danladi was very cross and locked her in the shed.

But the goat jumped through the window and ran into the mountains. She had never seen anything so lovely. She was very happy.

Musa in the kitchen

Musa was good boy who often liked to help his mother in the kitchen. She was always very busy. Most of the time he washed the cutlery, the dishes and the pans.

Musa also liked to watch his mother cook. Sometimes he was allowed to help prepare the food.

His mother explained that some of the equipment was dangerous and that in the kitchen he must use things carefully and safely.

One day when he was helping to cook some yam on the stove he burned his finger badly. His mother cooled the burn and covered it gently with a bandage to keep it clean.

Adverbs

Adverbs are words that tell us more about how an action is done. Adverbs answer three main questions: How? When? Where?

Adverbs that answer the question 'How?' are called Adverbs of manner.

How is he writing?
He is writing carefully.

How are they singing?
They are singing sweetly.

How is the man talking?
He is talking softly.

How is she dancing?
She is dancing gracefully.

Adverbs that answer the question 'Where?' are called Adverbs of place.

Where is she? She is here.

Where is he? He is there.

Adverbs that answer the question 'When?' are called Adverbs of time.

When do you comb your hair? I comb my hair after my bath.

When did you buy the dress?
I bought it yesterday.

When will they be here?
They will be here next week.

When do you want the homework? I want it now.

Letter from the village

The cocoa farm
Ungogo village

May 1st 2013

My dear son,

We are all working very hard on the farm at the moment. The cocoa pods are ripe and it is time to cut them down.

We have to take the seeds from the pods and carry them a long way to the place we leave them to dry in the sun.

I hope you can visit us soon.

Love,
Mother

Tell the pupils they are going to write an information report about farming.

Give each group a set of key words to use in their sentences.

Write, 'how', 'what', 'why', 'when' and 'where' on the chalkboard.

Tell them to use these words to get ideas for their sentences.

Tell them to think about where the farm is, what is grown on a farm, what happens when the cocoa is ready to pick, why people like living on the farm.

Write 'farming' on the chalkboard and ask them to copy it in their exercise books.

Tell them to write as many sentences as they can about farming.

Plenary

Whole class teaching

Choose some pupils to read their information reports.

Ask the class if they have included 'how', 'what', 'why', 'when' and 'where'.

If not, ask them to say what else they could have included.

In 2008, Kwara State carried out a Teachers' Development Needs Assessment for all primary school teachers. This showed that most teachers in Kwara State did not have strong literacy and numeracy skills. The Kwara State Government responded by developing a strategy to support existing teachers and improve new teachers' pre-service training.

These literacy and numeracy lesson plans, developed by the Kwara State School Improvement Team, were part of that strategy. Two years after introducing these plans alongside the training and support programme, Kwara State began to see strong improvements in teachers' teaching skills and pupils' learning outcomes.

Special thanks go to:

The Honourable Commissioner and staff of the Kwara State Ministry of Education and Human Capital Development, as well as the Kwara State Universal Basic Education Board for their support and valuable input and for agreeing to share these plans with other states.

The UK's Department for International Development (DFID) and the DFID-funded ESSPIN programme for their input, focus, guidance and constructive criticism throughout the development of the plans.

Thanks also go to the teachers of Kwara State who have used these plans to bring about change in their classrooms.
