Introduction

The commitment of the Lagos State Government towards improving the quality of education has continued to take priority in her efforts to move the State forward. This is evident in successes recorded so far in the School Improvement Programme (SIP) initiated for this purpose and supported by the Education Sector Support Programme in Nigeria (ESSPIN).

With the introduction of the full literacy and numeracy lesson plans, which came after the initial pilot abridged version, the story of ineffective methods of teaching of literacy and numeracy is changing. The introduction of the lesson plans was to ensure that classroom teachers' capacity was improved. Among other things, the lesson plans sought to address the issue of poor methods of teaching by offering a step-by-step guidance to teachers on how to deliver good quality lessons in literacy and numeracy.

The complete modules of the lesson plans for Primary 1 to 3 were produced through the efforts of school improvement personnel such as the State School Improvement Team (SSIT) and the technical assistance from ESSPIN, funded by the UK Department for International Development (DFID). Within the short period of being introduced, the Primary 1 to 3 lesson plans have yielded a significant improvement in the teachers' approach to handling literacy and numeracy in our schools. This in turn had impacted positively on the performance of our pupils in the two subjects.

It is therefore with the same expectation of positive results that I introduce the newly produced lesson plans in literacy and numeracy for Primary 4 and 5 for use in our 1007 public primary schools to further improve the quality of primary education, as the bedrock of our education system in Lagos State.

Gbolahan K Daodu
Executive Chairman,
Lagos State Universal Basic Education Board.

The literacy lesson plans help you teach reading, writing, grammar, speaking and listening. Each week focuses on either reading or writing.

How?

How

This section illustrates a key concept through simple instructions and photographs. A sign at the top of the column shows you which part of the lesson uses this resource.

Learning expectations

Every pupil in the class will be at a different stage of understanding in literacy. The first page of each week lists learning expectations for the week. These learning expectations are broken into three levels:

What all pupils will be able to do.

What most pupils will be able to do.

What some pupils will be able to do.

Assessment

Weeks 17 and 19 include an assessment task (on the weekly page) for you to carry out with five pupils at the end of the week. This will help you find out whether they have met the learning expectations.

Next to the task, there is an example of a pupil's work, which shows what a pupil can do if they have met the learning expectations.

If most pupils have not met the learning expectations, you may have to teach some of the week again.

For reading tasks, write the pupils' answers in their exercise books so you can see what they can do.

Spelling

Each lesson starts with a spelling section. Pupils need to identify sounds in words in order to spell them. Tell pupils to try to sound out words before they spell them.

Grammar

Pupils will be taught different types of grammar to help them improve their writing and reading.

Comprehension

Pupils will do activities to help them understand the passage they have been reading. Activities might be questions, role plays or drawing pictures.

Reading

Arrange the class into groups of eight or fewer for supported group activities. There are four activities, A, B, C and D, which each group will complete during the week.

If you have a very large class, you may have more than one group for each letter.

Shared writing

Take ideas for writing from the whole class. Write their ideas on the chalkboard and ask questions to develop their ideas and produce a piece of writing.

Guided writing

Take ideas for writing from a group of pupils. Guide them to write by explaining and showing examples of good writing. Work with the group to produce one piece of writing.

Independent writing

Pupils practise good writing using the skills learned during the week. This should be their own ideas and writing, not copied from the chalkboard.

Brainstorm

Gather ideas for writing by collecting words and phrases, which pupils can use during independent writing. Write the title in the middle of the chalkboard.

Ask questions, and as pupils reply, write their answers around the title to make a spider diagram.

Learning expectations

By the end of the week:

All pupils will be able to:

Talk about a folk tale.

Most pupils will be able to:

Answer questions about a folk tale.

Some pupils will be able to:

Say some of the features of a folk tale.

Write these folk tales on the chalkboard and leave them there for the week.

'Why snails move slowly' is taken from Nigeria Primary English 4, page 84, copyright Learn Africa Plc.

Why worms live underground

Many years ago when Eyo III was ruling over all men and animals, he often invited his subjects to feasts at his palace. One day after the feast, the head ant got up and was shouting how he and his people were stronger than anyone. He was laughing at the worms and said they were poor wriggling things.

The worms were very angry, so the king said that the best way to decide the question of who was stronger was for both sides to meet on the battlefield and have a contest. On the third day after the feast, everyone came to see the contest.

At sunrise the ants left their nest in thousands and millions, as is their custom.

As they were marching close together they looked like a big brown band moving over the road. When they came to the battlefield, the big brown band spread out and the whole piece of ground was a mass of moving ants and small groups of struggling worms.

The ants were attacking the worms with their sharp mouths and the fight was soon over. The few worms who survived buried themselves out of sight.

King Eyo decided that the ants were the winners, and ever since the worms have always been afraid and have lived underground. When they come to the surface after the rain they hide themselves underground if anything comes near, as they fear all people.

Why snails move slowly

Long ago, there was no rain and the grass did not grow. The animals were all hungry. Snails only eat grass so they got weaker and weaker.

One day, a snail was sliding past an old lady's house when it smelled porridge. "I'll go inside," it thought. But nobody was there. The snail was so hungry that it climbed into the bowl and started to eat. But the porridge was so thick that the snail got stuck!

Soon the old woman came home and found the snail in her porridge! She was not angry because she understood the snail was hungry.

When she put the snail on the ground outside she hadn't cleaned the porridge off, so it could not move.

Soon caterpillar came along. "What's the matter?" he asked. "Why are you covered with mud?" The snail did not want to tell his friend what had happened, so it said, "I'm playing a game and I must have this mud on me."

The caterpillar crawled away. The poor snail was left with porridge inside its shell. Since that time, snails move very slowly and they always leave a trail that looks like porridge.

Week 16: Folk tales

Day 1: A folk tale

Learning outcomes

By the end of the lesson,
most pupils will be able to:

Blend and read some compound words.

Say how a folk tale is different from other stories.

Preparation

Before the lesson:

Write these compound words on the chalkboard: 'sunset', 'playground', 'weekend',
'grandson', 'paintbrush'.

Make two sets of these sentence flash cards:
'The ant gets up.', 'He says.', 'The worms are angry.', 'The ants leave the nest.'

Read How? Reading compound words, as shown below.

How? Reading compound words

- 1 Ask individual pupils to read their folk tales.
- 2 Ask individual pupils to describe one of the characters in their folk tales.

- 3 Ask individual pupils the following questions:
'What is the title of your folk tale?'
'How many characters does your folk tale have?'
'What challenge does the folk tale contain?'
'Is the challenge solved?'

Example of a pupil's work

This pupil can:

- Rewrite a folk tale.
- Describe characters in a folk tale.
- Use wow! words to make their writing more interesting.

The crooked shell

A long time ago there was a terrible famine. The animals were getting weaker and thinner.

Tortoise was very sly and when he met rabbit at the market he saw that he could trick her.

Rabbit was sweet, caring and thoughtful, she took Tortoise to her home in the sky for a fine meal. Rabbit's mother let down a long rope for them.

After a delicious meal Tortoise went home, but he was soon hungry again.

He went back to trick Rabbit's mother into feeding him again.

Rabbit's mother understood what Tortoise was doing and let him fall to the ground, broken.

Some pupils will be able to:

Talk about a fable and how the characters could have behaved differently.

Write these fables on the chalkboard and leave them there for the week.

'The boy who cried wolf' is adapted from Nigeria Primary English 4, page 166, copyright Learn Africa Plc.

Grasshopper and Toad

Grasshopper and Toad were very good friends. One day Toad invited Grasshopper to eat at his house.

The next day, before they sat down to eat, Toad washed his forelegs and asked Grasshopper to do the same.

Grasshopper did so, and it made a loud noise. Toad said, "I cannot eat with that horrible noise." So Grasshopper tried to eat without rubbing his forelegs together, but it was impossible. Toad complained bitterly. Grasshopper felt angry and ate nothing. Finally he said to Toad, "I invite you to my house for dinner tomorrow." The next day, Toad arrived at Grasshopper's house.

As soon as the meal was ready, Grasshopper washed his forelegs and asked Toad to do the same thing. Toad did so, and then hopped towards the food.

"You had better go back and wash again," said Grasshopper, "Your forelegs are dirty again."

Toad washed again, then hopped back to the table and bit into some food.

Grasshopper said, "Please don't put your dirty forelegs into the food. Go and wash them again."

Toad was furious. "You just don't want me to eat with you!" he said. Grasshopper replied, "You are the one who started it yesterday."

From then on, they were no longer friends.

The boy who cried wolf

Joseph looked after the village goats, taking them to the hills every day to eat grass. He was happy because no one told him what to do. However, he soon grew bored.

There was a large pack of wolves living in the hills that would often come down to the village and kill the goats. Joseph was fed up one day and decided to make something exciting happen.

He ran down the hill towards the village. "Wolf! Wolf!" he cried, "Wolf! Help!"

The villagers heard his cries and ran towards the hills. Joseph climbed up into a tree and watched. The villagers were shouting and waving sticks to frighten away wolves. Joseph laughed so much that he nearly fell out of the tree.

When everyone had gone, he climbed down and took the goats back to the village. The villagers were angry with him, but he told them it was a joke and they should be glad that the goats were safe.

A few days later, Joseph decided to play the same trick on the villagers again. He thought it was very funny that everyone would come running because of him.

A few weeks later he was sitting in the sun when suddenly he heard the goats cry out. The wolves had come! He tried to scare them away, shouting and waving his arms. Running to the village, Joseph shouted, "Wolves! Help!" The villagers were angry and said, "You have played this trick too many times!"

Joseph was ashamed and went back to the hills. The goats had gone and all he could see was a mess of fur and blood. He sat down and cried, "Why did I do such a bad thing?"

Learning expectations

By the end of the week:

All pupils will be able to:
Retell a simple fable.

Most pupils will be able to:
Explain the message in a fable.

Some pupils will be able to:
Talk about a fable and how the characters could have behaved differently.

Write these fables on the chalkboard and leave them there for the week.

Fables taken from Nigeria Primary English 4, pages 89 and 74—75, copyright Learn Africa Plc.

The greedy dog

A dog was walking along the path with a piece of meat in his mouth. He came to a big pond and stopped to drink. But he couldn't drink because he was carrying meat in his mouth. Then he saw himself in the water. He thought, "The dog I can see has a bigger piece of meat than me!" So he dropped his meat and tried to bite the other dog. His own meat disappeared into the water and the greedy dog had to go home with no food.

Play-boy

Once upon a time, there was a little boy. He should have been a very happy little boy for he had many beautiful toys, a kind mother and father and a lovely home, but he was not happy. He cried when he had to go to bed, he frowned when he had to help his mother and he would not share his toys with his baby brother or his friends. He wanted to do nothing but play all day. Although he must have had a real name, no one ever thought of calling him anything but Play-boy.

One day, Play-boy said to himself, "I shall run far away into the woods where no one can find me. Then I can play all day." So he ran off towards the woods.

On the way to the woods, he saw a bee. "Buzz, buzz," said the bee. "Why do you buzz?" asked Play-boy. "I make honey for the farmer. The farmer sells the honey and then he is happy. So I am happy too. That's why I buzz," said the bee.

As the boy ran on, he saw a cow. "Moo, moo," said the cow. "Why do you moo?" asked Play-boy. "I give milk to the children. Then the children are strong and happy. So I am happy too. That's why I moo," said the cow.

The little boy ran on. After a while, he saw a hen. "Cluck, cluck," said the hen. "Why do you cluck, hen?" he asked. "I lay eggs for a dear little girl. She takes the eggs to the market to sell them. Then she is happy and so I am happy. That's why I cluck," said the hen.

Play-boy also saw a sheep. "Baa, baa," said the sheep. "Why do you baa?" he asked. "I give wool to the master. My master makes cloth out of the wool. He is happy, so I am happy. That's why I baa," said the sheep.

Soon Play-boy began to think: The bee gives honey and so it is happy. The cow gives milk and so she is happy. The hen gives eggs and so she is happy. The sheep gives wool and it is happy.

"Oh," cried the little boy, "I want to give something too." He went back home. All that day, he was as busy as he could be. He helped his mother, cared for his baby brother and shared his toys with his friends. Much to the surprise of everyone, he neither frowned nor cried once during the whole day. His mother had a very big smile on her face. She was happy and the little boy was happy too. From that day on, no one ever called him Play-boy again.
